A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Spill leaves Colorado green

For a region in the middle of a drought, the roadside in Pagosa Springs, Colo., looked mighty green recently.

It was littered with more than $1 million, spilled when an armored car making a delivery to banks overturned along U.S. 160 about seven miles west of the southwestern Colorado town.

The driver fell asleep and rolled the truck off the north side of the road, State Patrol Cpl. Randy Talbot said.

Onlookers were kept away from the site, though one unidentified person was seen briefly looking for coins in the dirt with a cigarette lighter.

What's a name worth?

Claiming he has copyrighted the use of his name and is due royalties on its use, Frederick James sent the East St. Louis, Ill., judge overseeing his drug case a hefty $151 million bill.

James claims judges and his public defender have used his name 302 times in court proceedings, and he charges authorities $500,000 every time they speak or write his Officials at the U.S. Copyright Office said it does not allow names to be legally protected from another's use. "It's my private property," James replied.

City takes steps toward building new landfil

The city of Muleshoe's process of securing a new landfill is accelerating.

With the recent approval of the city's permit application by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission, the city has scheduled a pre-construction conference on the project for June

One resolution authorizes Mayor Victor Leal to sign an irrevocable letter of credit with Muleshoe State Bank and one authorizes him to execute a trust agreement with the bank.

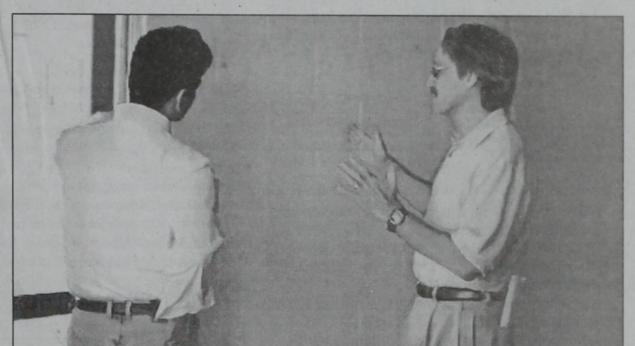

The council authorized both because City Manager David Brunson said at this point the state is requiring both; Brunson said he believes the law requires only one or the other to be final-

Either (or both) instruments will be filed to provide the state with assurance that the city will cover expenses involved in the eventual cloosing of the landfill and whatever follow-up expenses are involved. .

Brunscom also said Muleshoe State has agreed to waive. the 2 percent fee (about $8,000) it could collect on the city's assurance funds, which amount to $419,000.

The council also authorized the city manager to solicit bids for two major pieces of equipment for use at the landfill - a new scraper (Brunscom said the city's old one is beyond repair) and a set of scales.

All three landfill-related measures were approved unanimously by the council.

Discussing the renovation

Larry Anderson (right), a HUD official from Washington, D.C., explains to Muleshoe Mayor Victor Leal how proposed renovations could change the city's public housing. Anderson and other state and federal officials were in town Friday to discuss the face-lift, which reportedly could involve up to $2 million in repairs. Other local people involved in the discussions were County Judge Marilyn Cox, City Manager David Brunscom, city economic development director Janet Claborn, Noe Anzaldua, Tim Campbell, and Jim Hartline, city housing director.

City refers revised cable plan back to Five Area for approval

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The city of Muleshoe agreed Tuesday to forward a revised proposal for a locally owned cable-TV system back to Five Area Telephone Cooperative for approval.

The proposal had been submitted by Five Area, and city officials said they made only minor changes and do not anticipate that Five Area will have any trouble accepting the deal.

Then the proposal must come before the city council for a vote. Attorney Terry Langenegger said Five Area had proposed that any contract that is approved should run for 15 years.

The deal, if it is approved, would allow Five Area a franchise to "erect, maintain and operate" a cable system within the city limits of Muleshoe.

The move comes after years of friction between the city and Classic Cable, the current provider, and shortly after the company tried to raise fees on local Channel 6 to a level that was described as exor-

School district gets technology grant

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

The Muleshoe Independent School District has been awarded $50,000 by the state's Telecommunications Infrastructure Fund Board.

A portion of the funds will be used to provide Watson Junior High School and Muleshoe High School with staff development for teachers to integrate technology into curriculum.

This noncompetitive TIF grant focuses on supporting teacher training so that Texas teachers become skilled in using technology and integrating technology into all phases of their lessons.

Council names softball park on split vote

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The Muleshoe City Council voted 3-2 Tuesday to name the city-owned softball park after the man who has been called "Mr. Baseball" in Muleshoe.

Councilman Juan Chávez, who made the motion to name the park the Roque Flores Softball Park, and Councilman Jerry Hicks, who seconded the motion, voted in favor. Councilman Cliff Black and Councilwoman Sharon Grant voted Mayor Victor Leal then broke the 2-2 tie by voting for the name.

The vote came after Charlene Bartholf of Muleshoe had asked that the park be named after her husband, Walter, a former city parks and recreation director who worked on developing the park.

Bartholf said that, among other things, her husband headed the committee that solicited designs for the softball park and also oversaw the clearing of many trees in the constructing of the park. He also planted and cared for new trees at the park and at the tennis court, she said.

Black mentioned a letter received from Debbie Hutto referring to Flores as "Mr. Baseball." He then asked whether the group supporting Flores would be willing to erect a market at the field to honor Flores rather than having the park named for him.

"I dsiagree with that," Chavez said. "This was brought here on the agenda, and I think we need to decide it by a show of votes - see who is for or against it."

He said the discussion was just "beating around the bush."

He said "only Hispanics lived there, but no Hispanic was ever put on that committee," and "they ruined that park by destroying the trees.'

Before the discussion began, City Manager David Brunson had cautioned the council, saying "I'm not sure we have enough facilities to recognize everybody

City approves court technology fund

The Muleshoe City Council decided Tuesday to establish a Municipal Court Technology Fund, as allowed by legislative action since September 1999.

The fund will be financed by a $4 fee levied on each conviction in municipal court.

City Manager David Brunson told the council that figures prepared by Judge Norma Pérez indicate that the city has had 1,049 cases that would have qualified for the $4 levy, for a total of about $4,200.

The court will need money for new software very shortly, he added.

Expressing nostalgia for the high board, council members said they could understand the liability involved and would support taking the board down.

Brunson told them that most public entities have removed high diving boards and he recommended doing it here. Muleshoe's pool is old enough for the board to be grandfathered even though the pool is not deep enough, he said, adding that the pool is only 10 feet deep under the board and 12 feet is now required.

Tall-growing annuals can be temporary shrubs or hedges

By RONN SMITH Editor

If you have a new yard or will be reworking one from scratch, you might consider using some tall-growing annual flowers for the first few years until shrubs and trees begin to take hold.

The term "architectural annuals" may sound a little pretentious, but you're more familiar with them than you might think.

The most obvious are the "giant" sunflowers, which nowadays come in all sorts of bronze and reddish and two-tone types, as well as yellow.

They also come in various heights, so if you only want 3 or 4 feet (or less) or if you want a real wall of 8 or 10 even 15 feet, there is a sunflower that will grow quickly to the size you require. And few plants are less demanding as far as moisture; they will need plenty of sun, though.

Another common and tall-growing sun-lover is the castor bean (Ricinus communis). You may not be so familiar with the new varieties of castor beans, though. 'Carmencita' is often described as bronzecolored, but the time I grew it, I'd have called it "cranberry" or possibly something even redder than that.

If castor beans are going to get anything like their potential 10 feet tall and 3 to 6 feet wide, they'll need plenty of water.

Castor beans are one of the plants often grown by young children, but I wouldn't recommend it — especially if the children in question have a tendency to eat strange items. The seeds are supposed to be toxic.

Woodland tobacco (Nicotiana sylvestris) can get up to 6 feet tall with ample moisture; mine generally reach 3 feet and they're on the dry side just about all the time.

This species of flowering tobacco produces tall spikes of very slender, pendant white trumpets — not especially showy but one of the most dignified garden flowers, I think.

Although woodland tobacco is generally regarded as an annual, there are some at the farm that are 4 years old. As long as we keep having mild winter temperatures, I'll regard them as perennials.

Two tall-growing annuals that only recently became popular with gardeners are lion's ear (Leonotis leonurus) and Texas plume (Ipomopsis rubra).

Lion's ear (3 to 6 feet tall with orange flowers in whorls) has been around a long time but only recently became appreciated. It needs a lot of sun, and is likely to be perennial here.

Texas plume, also 3 to 6 feet tall but with red tubular flowers along upright stalks, is one of the many American natives benefiting from the current trend toward native plants.

One of my old favorites is Mexican sunflower (Tithonia rotundifolia), with its brilliant orange flowers (or, with a recent introduction, bright yellow).

I think the usual height given on this species is 6 to 8 feet, and if it's in a location that suits it and if it gets any moisture at all, it will certainly reach that height — and 4 or more feet across. I also don't believe the summer can get too hot for this one.

One thing about these tall annuals: You can plant them as a hedge in order to see if you really want a hedge. After one summer, you can either plant something more permanent or scratch the hedge idea before spending a lot of money on it.

All of these are commonly available (as seeds, anyway) except for Texas plume. It also is available as seeds, but will be harder to find — the source I used to have doesn't list it anymore.

Those who are interested in gardening with native plants should be interested indeed in a new book: Bulbs of North America, edited by Jane McGary and published by Timber Press of Portland, Ore.

If there's been a book on this subject before, I can't think of it.

I don't have a copy of it yet, so I can't tell you anything about the quality of the photos, but the information should be first-rate: The book is a cooperative effort of Timber Press and the North American Rock Garden Society, rather than being just one expert's viewpoint.

For now, the book is only available in hardback, so the cost is $34.95, but I'm sure it will be worth it. More information will be shared when my copy arrives.

This should be a good book to encourage your local library to acquire.

Regarding the advice last week on buying beneficial insects for your garden, Arline Phelps of Muleshoe was quick to point out that the website Gurney's Seed and Nursery Co. does not list the insects — only "ladybug food."

I was going by what was listed in the catalog and (hello!) I assumed the same things were available on the website.

OK, here's the data: Half a pint of ladybugs costs $13.95 and the catalog number is 12684. That's enough to treat a good-sized lot in town. (If you buy two half-pints, they are $13.30 each, or $26.60—same catalog number.)

If you want a LOT of ladybugs, you can order a quart for $33.95 (catalog number 12685).

Praying mantis egg cases are sold in threes; order "one offer" for $10.75 or "two offers" for $20.60. Catalog number is 12689.

Another valuable insect Gurney's lists is the green lacewing, with about 1,000 lacewings available for $12.95 (catalog number 15382).

Add $3.45 for handling (any size order) and mail to Gurney's, P.O. Box 778, Yankton, S.D. 57079-0778.

Happy planting!

Treatments help soothe arthritic knees

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

HOUSTON — Arthritic knees are a constant concern for millions of Americans, causing discomfort or, in many cases, limiting movement.

According to Dr. John Cianca, an assistant professor of physical medicine and rehabilitation at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, several lubricating solutions are now available and have been successfully used to treat osteoarthritis, or arthritis of the knee.

"The normal joint is surrounded by a fluid that acts as a lubricant and shock absorber," Cianca said. "Manufactured forms of this substance can be injected into the knee as a substitute. They don't cure osteoarthritis, but they have been shown to reduce pain in the knee."

Synvisc and Hylagan are two such lubricants. The Synvisc treatment consists of three injections, given one week apart over a three-week period. Many patients see positive results within six to eight weeks. The Hylagan treatment includes three to five injections over a five-week period. It appears to have few side effects.

"Both treatments can be effective in reducing pain from osteoarthritis by acting as a cushion and lubricant for the knee," Cianca said. "When injected, the liquid covers the inside of the knee and literally bathes it."

You snooze, you lose!

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

. We extend our sincere thanks to each of you at the time of our loss-for your prayers, concern, calls, visits, flowers, memorials and food.

We thank God that He saw it was time to take Webb Watts, our Dad and Pop, home with Him.

The excellent care of Dr. Purdy and his staff, the nurses at our hospital and home health agency are all deeply appreciated.

We want to say a special thank you to all the people at the Muleshoe nursing home for their loving care of and attention to our loved one the last four years of his life.

We so appreciated the wonderful ways our pastor, Brad Reeves, ministered to Daddy over the years, and our friend Curtis Shelburne's thoughtfulness in conducting the memorial service in Brad's absence will never be forgotten. The music of Marshall Cook, Joan Lewis, Curtis Shelburne and M.D. Gunstream made the service beautiful for us.

TUDENT-COMMUNITY ACTION CLUB

The Student-Community Action Club met at 6 p.m. May 16 for its annual end-of-school new-member cookout.

The opening business meeting was conducted by President Carmen Flores and the opening prayer was given by Chaplain Smokey Ramírez. Minutes were read by Secretary Megan Barrett and the treasurer's report read by Candace Hutto.

The president then asked each new member to stand, give his or her classification, interests and a pet peeve. New members attending were Crystal Bailey, Casey Barrier, Sara Benham, Marlie Black, Elida Diaz, Trina Hall, Megan Mason, Stacey Mata, Susan Ortega, Eva Pylant, Meghan Wills, Miguel Castorena, Che Chávez, Tyrel Gear, Tatom Heathington, Ray Martínez, Landon Sheets, Timothy Villa and Jami Wedel.

Election of officers for 2002-03 was conducted. Sponsor Jean Allison reminded members that the president, vice president and secretary must be old members, but other offices could be held by old or new members.

Sponsor Chris Mardis emphasized the importance of carrying out the duties of the office if elected and advised members not to accept an office if he or she cannot carry out the du-

Elected were Erica Whalin, president; Jenny Hall, vice president; Bailey Barrier, secretary; Jodie Hawkins, treasurer; Elida Diaz, reporter; Landon Sheets, chaplain; Stacey Mata, historian; and Che Chávez, parliamentarian.

Sponsors presented outgoing officers with a small gift and thanked each for their service. Honored were Flores; Elizabeth Castorena, vice president; Megan Barrett, secretary; Candace Hutto, treasurer; Suzanne Messenger, reporter; Andy "Smokey" Ramírez, chaplain; Brandon Mount, historian; and Matt López, parliamentarian.

Members voted to donate $1,550 to the Heritage Center. This is the biggest annual club donation to the center in 20 years, making a total of more than $20,000.

By JOLINE FRANKLIN Journal correspondent

Jim Ella Clemmons says her husband, Terome, is steadily improving after his accident several months ago.

He is in a wheelchair now but also has a walker he can use to get around. His therapist told him he can only use the walker twice a day for 20 minutes each time.

Jewel Peeler is a patient at the local hospital, but probably will be dismissed soon. She is really have missed at TOPS meetings!

Gayle Morris says her husband, Eddy, has gotten another good report from his Dallas doctor. They were in Dallas last week.

LaVonne McKillip sent me a nice card to let me know how much she likes "Down The Street" and the "down home" flavor it gives the Journal. She said she also looks forward to reading Curtis Sherlburne's "Focus on Faith" column

Bill Wilkins says that the vehicles usually usually called "golf carts" can actually be cars. Another word used for that type of vehicle might be "convertible car."

He explained that on his vehicle is a label identifying it as a "golf car." He has had his for several years and has gotten a lot of service out of it.

Although he likes to walk, his golf car saves him a lot of steps taking care of both business and pleasure. The only thing that can ground him is the weather. Billie Lee told me recently that she is still looking for a rug and quilting loom (a loom, not frame). Anyone who has one for sale may call her at 272-6775.

Conard Carter received the package he had been expecting from John Beecher in England!

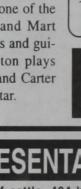

It took 1 pound15 pence(of British money) to mail it to

Carter played bass on "Some Sweet Day" and "That's All I Want From You!"

He also met Buddy Holly at Lubbock's Hi-Di-Ho drive-in not long before Holly's death. I just recently learned about a local country and western group called The Fiddlers. Larry Martin is one of the group's fiddlers, and Mart

Long plays the bass and guitars, Presley Newton plays fiddle and guitar, and Carter sings and plays guitar.

REATIVE LIVING'

Information on diabetes, beading with glue, and preparing light desserts will be the topics on "Creative Living" at 1 p.m. May 28 and 3 p.m. June 1 (All times are Central.)

"Creative Living" airs on public broadcasting station KENW-TV from Eastern New Mexico University in Portales.

Peggy Caldwell of Huffman, Texas, representing Delta Technical Coatings Inc., will show how to add beads to fabric or home decor projects without sewing.

Darlene Dickson, with the New Mexico Cooperative Extension Service in Clovis, will talk about using the food-guide pyramid to plan a diabetic diet that is good for the whole family.

Janel Franklin, a cookbook author from Tahoka, will share some recipes for light desserts.

Information on gift-wrapping, ' Southwest cooking, and masculine office motifs will be featured at 10:30 p.m. May 28 and 1 p.m. May 30.

Pat de Santis of William Wright in West Warren, Mass., will show an array of different types of gift wraps, including mesh ribbon, tassels and cording ties. She also will demonstrate how to make a folded rose to use as a gift, as a tree decoration or even as a corsage.

Connie Cahill, representative of Colorado Potato Administrative Committee in Monte Vista, Colo., will demonstrate several southwestern recipes that feature Colorado potatoes.

Deborah Durham of Los Angeles, representing Hewlett Packard, will show how to use the computer, scanner, digital camera and printer to create attractive office items with a masculine theme.

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden of Portales.

The show is carried on more than 100 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico, and is distributed by Westlink of Albuquerque.

ODAY'S RECIPE

TACO SALAD BOWL

1 lb. ground beef chuck or ground turkey

2 cloves garlic, minced

1 can (4 oz.) mild green chilies, finely chopped and drained

1 can (1 lb.) whole peeled tomatoes packed in juice, undrained

2 tsp. chili powder 1 tsp. salt

1/8 tsp. pepper 1 head lettuce (iceberg, Bos-
